

Brian and Carly Knight with their children Eliana and Peyton.

For Brian Knight, giving to the Opportunities for Children iFund program is simply a matter of paying it forward.

He knows firsthand that all it takes is a few people showing a child they matter to turn a negative situation into a positive one. Raised in a single-parent home, Brian credits his success today to the care and support he and his younger brother received from his mother and other relatives.

“They showed me that giving is caring,” he explains. “They demonstrated that regardless of the situation they were going to help me become successful.”

The first in his family to graduate college, Brian is a married father of two and is a CPA for Chaparral Energy. Brian’s monthly recurring gifts to the Opportunities for Children iFund are pooled with gifts from other donors to award grants to worthy organizations like Positive Tomorrows, an elementary school for homeless children. A recent iFund grant helped to expand its after school program.
